

THE PLAY'S THE THING

THE LONDON DEBUT OF GAVIN MILLER'S LATEST PLAY

MARCH 20TH - 25TH 2019

Gavin Miller is one of our most popular tour guides here at Discover Europe - he is also (as many of you know) an accomplished playwright. We are delighted to offer this special long weekend trip to support Gavin at the London debut of his play Carl's Story at the Tabard Theatre in Chiswick.

The play, set against a backdrop of journalistic misinformation and broken morals, is the story of how journalist, Annie, and divorcee, Beth, have their friendship put to the ultimate test when Annie encourages Beth to embark on an affair with her husband, Carl. When Beth's ex-husband, John, appears, the surfacing of a dark secret puts Annie's plans in jeopardy. As pressure mounts, both women are forced to face up to the past, a past in which they have been nothing less than loose with the truth.

BAFTA nominated British film and TV director Jules Williamson's review states: "Powerful and thought provoking, Carl's Story holds a mirror up to the audience asking what they think Truth really is. In this world of Fake News, it draws a clever parallel between our own personal truth, how we deceive ourselves and others, and the part the media plays in bending the facts. Both funny and moving, the play is beautifully written. Writer and director Gavin Miller has created a Tour De Force!"

Produced and developed originally by the Isla Theatre Project, based in Palma, Mallorca, Miller sets out to find actors who can bring life experience to their roles. His accomplished cast features Jenny Whiffen and Emma Bernbach, who Williamson describes as: "Wonderful to see two strong female parts being played with such relish by the two very talented female leads. Jenny Whiffen at times reminded me of Patricia Hodge in Harold Pinter's Betrayal, their rapport was clearly a joy to play, and for us to watch."

We will spend time with Gavin before the show and meet the actors for a post-show talk back. In addition to this, we have added in a few things to the itinerary to round out the weekend (look at the day-by-day for details), and also left time for you to explore on your own.

Join us this March for this special celebration of Gavin Miller and his success, hosted by Discover Europe President, Michael Induni.
