

CORSICA & SARDINIA

SEPTEMBER 23RD - OCTOBER 2ND 2020

Corsica is known as the “Isle of Beauty.” When Henri Matisse first visited in 1903 he was amazed by the clarity of the Mediterranean light and declared that this was where his passion for color began. It also has a thousand year old tradition of gathering and using medicinal plants. Several hundred species of plants (with 130 found nowhere else in the world) give the island its fragrant “maquis.”

Sardinia offers an almost primeval landscape of rocks, sculpted by the wind and the sea, forests filled with aromatic plants, and the clear blue waters of the Mediterranean. Sardinia and Corsica are the second and fourth largest islands in the Mediterranean respectively (Sicily is the largest and Cyprus is third). Sardinia is Italian and Corsica is French – these days, but their history of human occupation can be traced back 9,000 years!

For the most part, both islands have managed to escape the influx of tourism that has plagued the Mediterranean shores over the last few decades – indeed, both islands seem to have been relatively overlooked by the whole of the twentieth century! With very few mineral deposits and large inland areas of barren mountain country, Corsica and Sardinia have also been neglected by modern industry. There is a timelessness here that enables the traveler to look back though the centuries to catch a glimpse of a simpler past, albeit a fairly warlike one.

The islands have seen many invaders come and go and the legacy of their forts and castles helps to create the rich patchwork of history that unfolds here, but perhaps the most fascinating ruins are those of the earliest known inhabitants. The islands are dotted with Nuraghi, Neolithic dwellings made of huge stone blocks, left by the pre-Roman peoples.

This fall, join us for a journey back in time to Corsica and Sardinia.
